

Who is watching the roads you drive?

Flock license-plate cameras log every car that passes and share it across a national network. Most towns never voted on it.

It's public. Anyone can ask what yours cost, who can search the data, and how long it is kept. No lawyer, no fee, no reason needed.

A RECORDS REQUEST SHOWS:

- What the program costs, and when the contract renews.
- Who can search your plates, including out-of-state and federal agencies.
- How long your location data is kept, and any rules on how it's used.
