

What are your town's cameras really doing?

Flock cameras are bought with your tax money, usually with no public vote. A records request is how you get the facts. Anyone can ask.

WHAT TO ASK FOR

- 1 The contract
cost, renewal date, retention setting
- 2 The invoices
what it really costs each year
- 3 The data sharing
who else can search your plates
- 4 The audit logs
how it's really used, and why
- 5 The usage policy
the rules, if any exist
- 6 Locations + funding
how many, where, who paid
- 7 Sharing agreements
the deals behind the access

Many agencies post camera count and retention at transparency.flocksafety.com. Read it, then ask for what it leaves out.

COPY, PASTE, SEND

Good morning,

I'm a [your town] resident and I'd like to learn about the [police/sheriff]'s license-plate camera (Flock Safety) program. Under Wisconsin's Public Records Law (Wis. Stat. 19.31 to 19.39), I request copies of the following, in electronic form:

1. The Flock contract + amendments (term, renewal date, cost, retention).
2. Invoices and payments, past three years.
3. Data-sharing + in-system network settings that let outside agencies (state, out-of-state, federal) search your cameras even with no signed agreement, plus the full list of those agencies.
4. Search/audit logs, past 12 months (who, when, why).
5. Usage policy and retention schedule, or confirmation none exists.
6. Camera locations and any grant or funding source.
7. Any data-sharing agreements with other agencies.

I don't need to state a purpose (Wis. Stat. 19.35(1)). Please respond as soon as practicable. If any cost is over a few dollars, send an estimate first.

Thank you, [Your name] · [Your email]

IF THEY STALL, DENY, OR OVERCHARGE

They go silent

No fixed deadline, but the law says 'without delay.' Follow up in writing with a date.

The fee is huge

They can't bill you to redact. Ask for an itemized estimate and electronic copies.

"We'll ask Flock"

Not a lawful reason. The duty to respond is the agency's, not the vendor's.
